About University of Seoul

The University of Seoul is a public university funded and supported by the Seoul Metropolitan Government. The character of the university, the faculty, academic programs, and research institutions is shaped by Seoul's metropolitan dynamic. Along with basic research, it functions as a think-tank in formulating and supporting the major policy goals of the Seoul Metropolitan Government. With diverse and specific programs that integrate research and policy, practice and education, the University of Seoul seeks a balance between academic and professional concerns, between visionary goals and practical research

UOS's International Programs

As an open and international university looking towards the globalizing world, the University of Seoul (UOS) promotes international exchange at all levels of the institution. Presently, the international exchange program includes both the exchange of students and professors, and the exchange of partner universities' information and staff. the Institute of International Cooperation and Education (IICE) is responsible for all the administrative matters concerning international exchange and cooperation.

A University that communicates with the world

Exchange with 303 universities in 57 nations through the global capability building program. The University of Seoul is expanding programs to build the global capability of students, including exchange student programs, global internships, and short-term dispatches to overseas programs. The University of Seoul was ranked 9th among Korean universities in US News and World Report 2016 and 49th among Asian universities (7th among domestic universities) in the 2016 Asia University Rankings, proving its status as a global educational institution. In addition, the University of Seoul will expand collaboration programs with overseas cities and pursue the globalization of the university by establishing UOS global campus.

Student Exchange Program

Exchange students are those who have applied and are nominated by an overseas university under a formal exchange agreement. Exchange student candidates can apply through the international office of their home university. Tuition is paid to the home university, and in most cases, the application and documentation fee is waived. Students from UOS partner universities can apply for the UOS student exchange program. Applications should proceed with the approval of the international office of the students' home university.
