· A Prestigious Institution with a Rich History

As the pioneer and incubator of professional music education in modern China, the Shanghai Conservatory of Music (SHCM) has been widely reputed to be the “cradle of musicians” for its prestigious status in China’s music education scene. Founded on November 27, 1927 by Mr. Cai Yuanpei, who also served as its first president, and Dr. Hsiao Yi u-mei, under the name National Conservatory of Music, it stands as the first independent music institution of higher education in China. Currently, the Conservatory is jointly administered by the Ministry of Culture and Tourism of P.R. China and the Shanghai Municipal Government. It has received recognition through listings in the Double First-Class Initiative of China (2017 and 2022) and the Local High-level University Construction Scheme of Shanghai (2018 and 2022). Notably, the Conservatory ranked No. 10 for music in the QS World University Rankings by Subject 2024.

· Vision and Mission

Since its founding, the SHCM has been committed to its mission of training accomplished musical talent, nurturing a sense of beauty and harmony among the Chinese populace, and advancing Chinese musical art by introducing Western music while preserving and celebrating the rich heritage of traditional Chinese music. Guided by the motto of “Harmony, Determination, Dignity and Sincerity”, the Conservatory always stands at the forefront of musical art development with a view to serving the cultural needs of the Chinese nation. It has made unremitting efforts to establish and improve the professional music education system and teaching mode, playing a leading role in the progress of China’s professional music undertakings. Boasting a profound historical heritage and distinctive cultural traditions, it has nurtured several generations of outstanding Chinese music talent under the guidance of prestigious teachers and incubated numerous masterpieces, making remarkable contributions to China’s music education and cultural development cause. Among its most notable achievements are the world-famous violin concerto Butterfly Lovers and the piano piece Bufalo Boy’s Flute, just to name a few.

· Disciplines and Programs

The Conservatory consists of 15 departments and divisions, including the Composition and Conducting Department, Musicology Department, Orchestral Instruments Department, Voice and Opera Department, Piano Department, Traditional Chinese Instruments Department, Music Education Department, Music Engineering Department, Arts Administration Department, Modern Instruments & Percussion Department, Musical Theatre Department, Digital Media Art School, School of Marxism, and the General Education Division, as well as the Affiliated Music Middle School. As the first Chinese conservatory that has the authority to confer doctoral degrees in three first-level disciplines including Musicology & Dancology, Art Theory, and Drama & Film Studies, the SHCM takes great pride in its full-fledged, multidisciplinary music education system featuring a comprehensive curriculum covering music creation, music performance, music theory, and applied music.

Fenyang Campus

Fenyang Campus

音乐城堡

一座具有德国巴伐利亚风格的百年历史建筑，建于 1905-1911 年，原为德国侨民所建，曾是比利时领馆，1958 年成为上海音乐学院的一部分，曾作为图书馆使用。经过精心修缮这栋建筑不仅保留了其原有的历史风貌，还注入了新的文化活力，成为举办讲座和音乐活动的场所，并向公众开放。

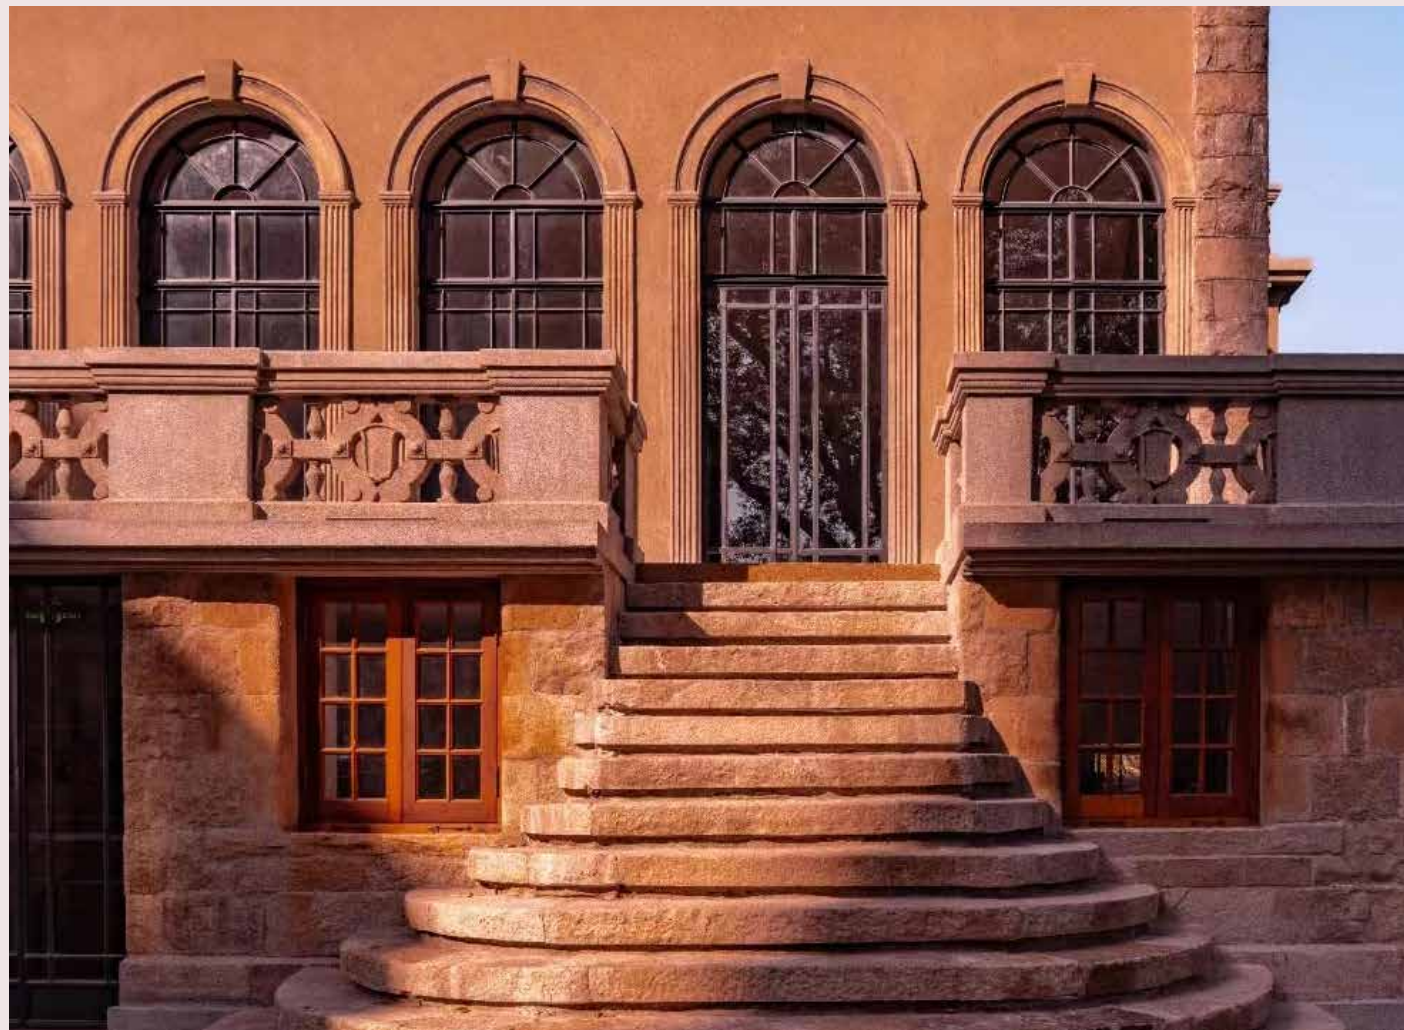

Music Castle

The Music Castle is a Bavarian-style garden mansion built by a German expatriate between 1905 and 1911. It used to be the Consulate General of Belgium and was later assigned to the SHCM in 1958, where it once functioned as a library. A recent renovation has restored its historic appearance and breathed new life into this significant venue, transforming it into a dynamic public space perfect for hosting lectures and musical events.

城市会客厅

Shanghai City Music Hall

城市会客厅

一座具有德国巴伐利亚风格的百年历史建筑，始建于1912年，原为犹太富商爱德华·爱兹拉的法国文艺复兴风格花园住宅，被称为“天赐大宅”，曾设有可供150人跳舞的舞厅和80座的音乐厅。修缮后，现已成为举办室内乐音乐会的场所。

Shanghai City Music Hall

The Shanghai City Music Hall, also known as the "Adeodata Hall," is a stunning garden mansion in the French Renaissance style. Constructed in 1912 as the residence of Jewish tycoon Edward Ezra, the palatial mansion featured a grand ballroom for 150 dancers and a music room to seat an audience of 80 people. Through careful refurbishment, this historic building has been reborn as a perfect setting for chamber music concerts.

美育楼 - 东方乐器博物馆 - Meiyu Building - Oriental Musical Instrument Museum -

美育楼（东方乐器博物馆）

始建于1936年，是一幢具有英国都铎风格特色的砖红色英式花园住宅。目前一楼是东方乐器博物馆。东方乐器博物馆始建于1984年，于1987年正式对外开放，博物馆的前身为“中国民族乐器陈列室”，2001年，博物馆更名“东方乐器博物馆”。博物馆目前收藏乐器近千件，包含亚欧美非四十多个国家和地区的民族乐器。

Meiyu Building (Oriental Musical Instrument Museum)

This historical building, constructed in 1936, features a beautiful British Tudor-style design with a striking brick-red facade. Currently, the ground floor is occupied by the Oriental Musical Instrument Museum. Established in 1984, the museum was officially opened in 1987, originally named the Chinese National Musical Instrument Showroom before adopting its current name in 2001. The museum boasts an impressive collection of nearly 1,000 musical instruments from over 40 countries and regions spanning Asia, Europe, America, and Africa.
